YOUNG FOLKS' SOCIAL.

A very enjoyable young folks' social was held by Miss B. Holt at her residence on East Main street Monday afternoon. The guests were Miss Grace Herron, the Misses Hardwick, Miss Vodapough, Miss May Geddings and others. There were games and music, after which refreshments were served and a very pleasant occasion it proved to all present.

JIM CROW LAW

CHARLESTON, Jan. 19.—From informal conversations with legislators belonging to the majority side, the impression grows that a "Jim Crow" bill will pass. It is claimed the southern end of the state is sold for it. In fact, it is said that Ellis, the colored member of the House from Fayette, will introduce one himself.

Clarkson's Bill For a Sanitarium

At Terra Alta Lake for Consumptives is Strongly Endorsed.

(By Charles Brooks Smith.)

CHARLESTON, Jan. 19.—The presence in Charleston of J. T. Clarkson, of Keyser, is not due to political motives. He is here to look after the trip through the House and Senate of a bill to appropriate $50,000 for the establishment of a sanitarium at Terra Alta, on the mountain top in the Alleghenies for the treatment and cure of tuberculosis. While a delegate in the last legislature M. Clarkson was appointed on a joint committee to investigate the matter of the State establishing an asylum of this sort, and to recommend to the present legislature a location. Before his appointment to membership on that commission Mr. Clarkson was known to have spent several years in studying and reading up on the fight the national and several state governments are waging against the white plague. So, his designation to serve on this committee was a very happy one. The commission performed its work with a deep consciousness of the grave responsibility placed upon it, and its investigations were thorough and its conclusions the result of serious reflection. In its work it visited a number of institutions in various states, and attended the World's Tuberculosis Congress assembled in Washington, of which, by the way, Governor Dawson is a prominent member. The commission has framed a bill, which was introduced yesterday, and which asks for an appropriation of $50,000 with which to start this new State institution to be situated at Terra Alta Lake, a short walk from the mountain town of that name. No bill plumped into the hopper so far starts on its uncertain journey with more chances of becoming a law than this particular one. The governor's message goes into the subject of the war being waged on tuberculosis very thoroughly, and the disease itself is discussed technically and with impressive force by Governor Dawson, who gives the strongest kind of a recommendation for the establishment of a sanitarium for the treatment of this insidious disease. And who could make the appeal to the conscience and humanity of our lawmakers better than the present governor of the state? It is the one sad and quivering note of tragedy and pathos in an able state paper; no heart that loves another could read it, and see it in the reflected lights of its attendant circumstances but that must beat the faster for sympathy with its purpose and for sorrow because of its tragic origin and environment. In addition, the great influence of the governor's recommendation weighs, the report of the state board of health approves the plan and gives reasons for its inauguration, and public sentiment throughout lends to its powerful endorsement. The statistics show tuberculosis steadily increasing in West Virginia.

The above subject naturally leads to a reference to another one of kin. It is Senator Jake Fisher's idea that the principle underlying the management of the insane asylum should be given a thorough modernizing. As are the conditions, it is his belief, that they are merely prisons for the incarceration of the unfortunate and much to be pitied insane. His idea is that they should be hospitals in fact as well as in name; that the one overwhelming and governing idea to cure—the reclamation of lost minds. This, he thinks, has been subordinate to other principles less in accord with the progress of science and civilization. "There are, in my humble judgment," declared the senator from Braxton county, "hundreds of patients in the insane asylums who could be cured and sent back to home and friends, and the state relieved of the expense of their care, if it was known the cause of their particular ailment and they were treated carefully for such. I mean no reflection on our asylum superintendents or their assistants; but I do mean that in this age of specialization, in this great, wealthy state of ours, it would pay the state, and it would be a tribute demanded by humanity, to employ in our asylums the best specialists on mental diseases that money can procure, and set them to work on the task of curing our insane. So far as their proper keeping is concerned, that is likely well enough as it is, though it probably could and should be better, but our curative endeavors are far from being as energetic and serious as they should be." This and more Senator Fisher told Governor Dawson in a lengthy conference they had yesterday. It is a point raised that opens up a long vista for the most careful, thoughtful contemplation of state authorities.

Contained in this correspondence of eight days ago, prediction was made of the failure of the prohibition amendment resolution to pass the state senate, and it was forecasted that the real, genuine clash on the liquor question would come over the establishment of the voting unit in some sort of a local option law that may be passed. That is, whether the county or the municipality of given size should be the basis. There has been no change in the situation in these eight days to warrant any amendments to the statements made in the article referred to. It stands true today as when first written. Monday saw the introduction of several of a bills, and the next few days to come will witness the debut of several more. In fact, by the time the session is well under way, there will be many bills of like proposal. Senator Santee's bill is very closely modeled after the Rose law in effect in Ohio. It provides that the county shall be the unit; that thirty per cent of the bona fide voters may petition for an election, which shall be held between thirty and twenty days after the court grants the petition; and that no election for license shall be held within three years after the first preceding election. Senator Hazlett's bill is somewhat similar, and when completed by its author may give to the large cities (not the smaller incorporated towns) the right to settle the license question for themselves. It also holds up the price of license considerably, and places a limit on the number of licenses granted, which is based on authentic census reports. It contains many other excellent provisions, too.

The Anti-Saloon officers, T. M. Hare, superintendent, and Theodore Alvord, legal adviser, and should we say, in defiance to the suspicious legislative lobbyist, are busy and much in evidence. They have been quiescent up till now, but not inactive in their cause it may well be believed. And the Model License League, and lobbyists will be here with their bill and their petitions. The game of petition is one that more than one can play at. The Model License League while not bragging on quantity, are anxious to have the quality of their compared. Theirs for the most part, is from the large towns and cities, and are signed by the tax-paying classes very generally. In all, they have about 30,000 signatures. It is said, who believe that the enactment of the Model License League bill into law, will prove satisfactory to the people very generally throughout the state, and will successfully bring about a gratifying compromise between the two extremes. They assert for their bill that it will limit the number of saloons in a community; raise the prices of licenses; take the saloon out of politics, and thoroughly overhaul and improve the business.

As forecasted, the financial considerations to the state, have entered largely into the growth of a more conservative sentiment on this subject. A table of figures given in the governor's message shows that the revenues from licenses to manufacture and sell intoxicating liquors and beverages, amount to in excess of $900,000 per annum—nearly one-third of the state's entire revenue. To cut off this source of money supply, when the state government is asking for, and rightfully needs more revenues to meet the growing expense of a rapidly growing commonwealth, is dawning on the legislators and officials responsible for the solvency of the state and the proper conduct of its government and management of its twenty-three eleemosynary institutions as a proposition not to be considered lightly. They are getting pretty serious and thoughtful over it. The sentiment of a campaign issue has begun to wear off, and the hard facts of financial reality are coming in for grave reflection.

S.S.S. REMOVES THE CAUSE OF CATARRH

No remedy that does not entirely remove the cause of Catarrh from the blood will ever make a permanent cure of the trouble. Just as long as the circulation remains contaminated with the impurities and catarrhal matter which produce the trouble, the mucous membranes or inner linings of the body will be kept in a state of irritation and disease. Sprays, lotions and other local applications will sometimes temporarily relieve the tight, full feeling in the head, buzzing noises in the ears, uncomfortable, stuffy feeling of the nostrils, and help to loosen the mucus in the throat; but Catarrh is a constitutional blood disorder and until it has been entirely driven from the system there can be no permanent cure. S. S. S. cures Catarrh by removing the cause from the blood. It attacks the disease at its head and by thoroughly purifying and cleansing the circulation, and ridding it of every particle of impurity, and at the same time enriching the blood, allows the inflamed and irritated membranes to heal, improves the general health, and stops every disagreeable symptom. S. S. S. reaches down to the very bottom and leaves no trace of the disease in the system. Book on Catarrh and any medical advice free to all who write.

TELLS US HOW TO MAKE A MIXTURE

Splendid Remedy for Stomach and Kidneys and Rheumatism

"The people here do not drink enough water to keep healthy, exclaimed a well known authority. The numerous cases of kidney and bladder diseases and rheumatism are mainly due to the fact that the drinking of water, nature's greatest medicine, has been neglected."

Stop loading your stomach with medicines and cure all; but get on the water-wagon. If you are really sick, why, of course, take the proper medicine—plain common vegetable treatment, which will not shatter the nerves or ruin the stomach."

To cure rheumatism you must make the kidneys do their work; they are the filters of the blood. They must be made to strain out of the blood the waste matter and acids that cause rheumatism; the urine must be neutralized so it will no longer be a source of irritation to the bladder, and most of all, you must keep these acids from forming in the stomach. This is the cause of stomach trouble and poor digestion. For these conditions you cannot do better than take the following prescription: Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargoon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Mix by shaking well in bottle and take in teaspoonful doses after each meal and at bedtime, but don't forget the water. Drink plenty of it.

This valuable information and simple prescription should be posted up in each house hold and used at the first sign of an attack of rheumatism, backache or urinary trouble, no matter how slight.
